A push is on to speed up implementation of a U.S. Small Business Administration program aimed at assisting women-owned enterprises seeking federal government contracts and other economic initiatives. Although the SBA's Women's Procurement Program was approved by Congress and signed into law in 2000, the appropriate planning has yet to occur. "The SBA has not committed to a timeframe for implementation, hasn't written a single regulation and not one single woman business owner has benefited from the targeted program which this law was to provide," according to Margot Dorfman, CEO of the U.S. Women's Chamber of Commerce. (By James E. Guyette, Contributing Editor)
